Report on Annual Programmes organized on Code of Conduct

The following report outlines the professional conduct and ethics programmes conducted for the administrators, faculty members, students, and non-teaching staff of the University.

The aim of the programmes is to instill a strong sense of responsibility professionalism and integrity among the University community.

Objectives:

- To raise awareness about the importance of ethical conduct.
- To promote a culture of integrity, honesty, and accountability among the stakeholders.
- To provide guidance on ethical dilemmas commonly encountered in the campus.

Activities for students

Orientation sessions are organised at the beginning of every academic year to introduce professional ethics to the newly admitted students. The sessions highlight the key ethical principles, case studies and scenarios to engage students in ethical discussions. Eminent people from various professions and industry are invited to deliver lecture on the significance of ethical behaviour.

Activities for faculty members:

Programmes are organized for faculty members to enhance their understanding of the professional ethics and its application in teaching and research. The programmes focus on strategies to address ethical issues in the classroom and promote ethical behaviour among the students. The faculty members are encouraged to incorporate ethical considerations into their teaching profession.

Activities for administrators and supporting staff:

Annual programmes are organized for administrative and supporting staff to promote high standards of honesty, punctuality, and professional ethics. The programmes enhance their understanding about the policies, practices, vision, and mission of the University. They are made aware of the duties, responsibilities, and limitations of their posts. They are also made to understand the pros and cons of the work so that they could facilitate the requirements of the teaching staff, general administration, and students.

Outcomes:

The Code of Conduct and ethics programmes yield several positive results including:

- Increased awareness and understanding of ethical principles among the stakeholders.
- Enhanced ability to identify and address ethical dilemmas in both academic and professional contexts.
- Improved ethical decision-making skills and critical thinking.

The professional ethics programmes contribute to fostering a culture of integrity, responsibility, and ethical conduct among the stakeholders. These activities have empowered individuals to navigate complex ethical situations, thereby preparing them to follow ethical considerations in their field.
